Q-Infinity 2019

Quiz Program in Medical Investigations and Pharmacology

Nurses play a major and vital role in the care of patients in any given setting. It includes preparing the patients for medical investigations, interpreting the results of investigations and initiating prompt interventions including administration of medications. This duty requires a huge amount of effort on behalf of nurses to have a solid understanding of medical diagnostics, pharmacology, safe administration of medications and monitoring for its side effects and drug interactions.

Therefore it is the responsibility of nurse educators to empower the present generation of nursing students to acquire necessary knowledge and skills in medical investigations and pharmacology.

In recognition of the same, Apollo College of Nursing, Chennai has planned to organise Q-Infinity, a quiz programme for nursing students in medical diagnostics and pharmacology on 08.04.2019.
